Why We Dug the Canal

Why has America succeeded in building the Panama Canal, where France failed? Was it because we had more money, better men or better tools? No, it was because the French died so fast they could not make any progress. The French, with an average force of 10,000 employees, lost from death during their construction period 22,000 men. We with an average force of 33,000 men during about the same length of time, have lost from death 4,000. The French, with an average of 1,600 white employees, lost during their construction period from yellow fever 2,000 men.

We, with an average of 5,000 white employees during the same length of time, have lost from yellow fever only eighteen. The important question, however, is the health of the American employees. During the year 1911 we had 10,489 American whites connected with the commission. The death-rate from disease was 4.48 per thousand. Of these 10,489 Americans, 6,025 were men and 4,464 women and children. The death-rate from disease among the men was 2.82 per thousand. That among the women and children from the same cause was 6.72 per thousand.

The degree team of the Dalton Odd Fellows were in Brunswick last week and administered the third degree to Dr. Cleveland. The same team went to Moberly to exemplify the degree work there in the same degree. The Dalton team has an extensive reputation for doing this degree in fine shape.

An Epigram

"That wasn't a bad epigram on the magistrate's part," said the somewhat educated tramp who had been convicted for vagrancy.

"What did he say asked the tramp's pal.

"Seven days," came the reply.

"That ain't no epigram, is it?"

"I'm sure it is. I once asked a parson what an epigram was and he said, 'It's a short sentence that sounds light, but gives you plenty to think about.'"

The Perfect Laxative For Elderly People

Age has its attractions no less than youth in a more serene and quieter life. But it is this very life of rest without sufficient exercise that brings with it those disorders that arise from inactivity. Chief of these are chronic, persistent constipation. Most elderly people are troubled in this way, with accompanying symptoms of belching, drowsiness after eating, headaches and general lassitude. Frequently there is difficulty of digesting even light food. Much mental trouble ensues, as it is hard to find a suitable remedy. First of all the advice may be given that elderly people should not use salts, cathartic pills or powders, water or any of the more violent purgatives. What they need, women as well as men, is a mild laxative tonic, one that is pleasant to take and yet acts without griping. The remedy that fills all these requirements, and has in addition tonic properties that strengthen the stomach, liver and bowels, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which thousands of elderly people use to the exclusion of all other remedies. Trustworthy people, like Mr. John W. White, Mayview, Mo., and Mrs. Eleanor Olson, Mountain Grove, Mo., say they take it at regular intervals and in that way not only maintain general good health, but that they have not in years felt as good as they do now. You will do well to always have a bottle of it in the house. It is good for all the family. Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 305 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.
